Message From the President and Chief Executive Officer

Mile Corrigan

At Noblis, we've worked hard to earn a strong reputation across our industry as an honest company that's committed to doing what's right in every situation. The work we deliver to our colleagues, clients, the public and each other sets the benchmark for excellence based on our shared service standards of ethics, respect, innovation and efficiency—and is conducted in an environment where objectivity and integrity are the hallmarks.

Our commitment to this Code of Ethics and Conduct is critical to our overall success and in building relationships based on trust and confidence with our clients and colleagues every time. While the Code may not cover every possible circumstance, it helps us navigate our complex environment by providing a foundation of principles and standards that empower us to always do the right thing.

We rely on you to continuously live this Code and uphold its standards of conduct in every business encounter. If you're ever in doubt, we have several resources to help, including the anonymous Noblis Compliance Helpline Reporting System and the Compliance Helpline Website which are detailed in this Code. You may also find these resources on the KNOW or talk to your supervisor or a member of the Ethics and Compliance team to seek advice or raise concerns.

I want to thank you for all you do to help make Noblis one of the most ethical companies and an incredible place to work.

I. An Innovative Company Producing Enduring Impacts

A. What is a Code of Conduct For?

So, you may be asking yourself, why do I have to take this course and what does the Code of Conduct have to do with my job? The answers are simple. Our Code of Conduct clearly states our values. It helps us act ethically and comply with the law everywhere we operate. It helps us know how to conduct our business the right way. Doing things the right way starts with knowing the right things. If you are in a situation where the right way is not clear, check the Code. If you think someone is not acting ethically or legally and you are not sure what to do, check the Code. The Code of Conduct is your resource—available whenever you need it.

B. We Enrich Lives and Make Our Nation Safer

Our Mission

- Solving complex scientific and technical problems in ways that benefit the public.
- Investing in a research and development program for the benefit of our clients.
- Delivering objective and unbiased solutions to our clients.
- Sharing knowledge and contributing to the state-of-the-art and practice.

Our Common Purpose

- We enrich lives and make our nation safer with our shared passion for excellence and innovation.
- We establish trust and confidence with every colleague, every client, every time.

C. The Noblis Experience: Ethical, Respectful, Innovative and Efficient

The Noblis Experience is our commitment to creating an exceptional client and employee experience with every interaction. At the heart of the Noblis Experience is our Common Purpose and our Four Service Standards: Ethical, Respectful, Innovative and Efficient.

Our Service Standards/Service Behaviors

- Ethical: Upholding our Noblis principles and values and doing what's right in every situation.
 - I act with integrity and truthfulness in every situation.
 - I adhere to the guidance in, and follow, the Noblis Code of Ethics.
 - I acknowledge that conflicts of interest and biases exist, and I strive to be fair in all my interactions with my clients and colleagues.
 - I raise concerns in good faith when I encounter ethically questionable situations or conduct.
 - I practice responsible science, protect data, and create solutions that serve the public interest.
- Respectful: Collaborating with courtesy and an open mind to establish trust, strengthen relationships and value diversity.
 - I actively listen and treat others the way they want to be treated.
 - I create an inclusive environment where clients and colleagues are encouraged to share and value diverse perspectives.
 - I embrace difficult conversations in a timely manner with an open mind.
 - I provide recognition and feedback in a constructive way.

Noblis Code of Ethics and Conduct

- Innovative: Anticipating opportunities and priorities to deliver high-quality, effective, integrated services and solutions by using creative and forward-thinking approaches.
 - I actively approach my work with creativity, passion, and vision.
 - I provide integrated, valued services and solutions that exceed client expectations.
 - I intentionally leverage the power of collaboration and teamwork.
 - I am courageous in exploring solutions while considering levels of risk.
 - I embrace challenges as opportunities to make a positive impact.
- Efficient: Consistently providing practical, streamlined and timely services and solutions in every aspect of our business.
 - I perform my role reliably.
 - I share and apply best practices and lessons learned.
 - I uncomplicate the complicated.
 - I use time and resources wisely.
 - I anticipate and change with evolving client needs.

II. About This Code

A. What is the Code?

Our Code is fundamental to how we do business. Our Code reinforces the responsibilities we all share in protecting the Company, its assets and reputation. Our Code provides guidance on the business behaviors and relationships we expect each of you to maintain while working and interacting with colleagues, clients, business partners and competitors.

We are dedicated to providing our employees with the support and advice they need to act according to our Code and values. Every day, we conduct business and make decisions and choices on behalf of Noblis and our clients. Every day, we are confronted with situations that test our values, challenge us and call upon our judgment. Our reputation is built on our behavior. It is important that each of us understand our legal and ethical responsibilities so that we can make the right decisions every day, all the time.

B. Ask Questions. Speak Up.

We cannot live up to a commitment to act with integrity if we, as individuals, do not speak up when we should. That is why, in addition to knowing the legal and ethical responsibilities that apply to your job, we must speak up if:

- We are unsure about the proper course of action and need advice.
- We believe that someone acting on behalf of Noblis is doing—or may be about to do something—that violates this Code, the law or any of Noblis' policies.
- We have personally engaged in misconduct.

C. How Do I Know If What I am Doing Is Right?

Every day we make decisions and choices that impact Noblis and our clients. We may be confronted with situations that challenge us and test our values and judgement. Our reputation depends on us, collectively, upholding our shared values of honesty, integrity and respect. It is important that each of us understand our legal and ethical responsibilities so that we can make the right decisions every day, every time.

Noblis Code of Ethics and Conduct

Ask Yourself

- Is what I am doing lawful?
- Does my conduct align with our policies, service standards and behaviors?

If you are unsure as to the best course of action in a particular situation, or if you have a specific business conduct question, you have options:

- Discuss your concerns with your manager.
- Read the relevant policies and procedures available in the QMS.
- Call the Compliance Helpline Reporting System, which is available to you 24 hours a day. Compliance Helpline reports may be made anonymously by telephone at 1-888- 297-4192 or online at the Compliance Helpline website through ethicspoint.com.
- Contact the Office of the General Counsel or the Compliance Office.

D. Reporting Violations of the Code

When you suspect or know that a violation of the Code or a policy or procedure has occurred, contact the Office of the General Counsel or the Compliance Office immediately. You also have the option to report concerns anonymously to the Compliance Helpline System via phone, or online through the Compliance Helpline website. Once a potential violation is raised, it will be investigated, and, if it is substantiated, we will take necessary corrective actions to resolve it. Code violators are subject to disciplinary action including but not limited to possible termination. We may also report the conduct to the appropriate authorities. If credible evidence of a relevant violation exists, we will make a timely disclosure to the appropriate government officials.

If you are unsure of the best course of action in a particular situation, or if you have a specific business conduct question, you have options:

- Discuss your concerns with your manager.
- Read the relevant policies and procedures available on the Noblis employee intranet site, the KNOW.
- Report potential issues or concerns anonymously by calling the Compliance Helpline Reporting System at 1-888-297-4192 or logging on to www.ethicspoint.com
- Contact the Office of the General Counsel at legal.office@noblis.org or the Noblis Ethics and Compliance Office at ComplianceOffice@noblis.org

The most important thing is that you ask the question or raise the concern. Any employee who, in good faith, seeks advice, raises a concern or reports misconduct is following this Code—and doing what’s right.

E. Whistleblower Protection

If you suspect wrongdoing involving a federal government contract, you may report the suspected conduct directly to a designated government official as described in our Whistleblower Policy or Whistleblower Policy – Intelligence Programs or Whistleblower Policy – Other Than Intelligence Programs.

If you are unsure how to report your concern, we encourage you to talk with your manager, the Office of the General Counsel or the Compliance Office to determine the best course of action. If you think someone is retaliating against you for reporting a wrongdoing involving a federal government contract, you may file a complaint with the appropriate agency Inspector General.

F. Zero Tolerance for Retaliation

We do not tolerate or permit retaliation of any kind against good faith reports or complaints of violations of this Code or other illegal or unethical conduct. If you are concerned about retaliation or believe that you have been subject to retaliation for reporting a violation of the Code, a corporate policy, law or regulation, you should immediately contact your manager, the Chief People Officer, the Office of the General Counsel, or the Compliance Office.

III. Respect in the Workplace

We are committed to maintaining and creating a diverse, inclusive and sought-after workplace that values different viewpoints, strong collaboration and continuous innovation.

A. Treat People with Respect and Dignity

We treat others with respect and dignity. We value an inclusive workforce because it promotes diversity of thinking and reaching solutions that help us achieve and meet our clients' needs. We conduct ourselves in a manner appropriate to the workplace, to keep all work environments free of harassment and to conduct all relationships with the appropriate level of respect and integrity.

Wherever you work, you represent Noblis and your conduct reflects on the company. Whether at a client site, another company's offices, a government installation, a professional training site, a conference, a vendor fair, or Noblis itself, you should always act in a professional manner, including maintaining the following behavior:

- Meet standards of common civility and treat others with respect.
- Refrain from behavior that could compromise the integrity of the Company.
- Strictly comply with the Employment Policy.
- Do not make disrespectful remarks about current or former clients, vendors, subcontractors, other teammates, other employees or about the Company in general.

B. Diversity, Equity, Inclusion and Accessibility

We are committed to a culture of inclusion.

We are committed to maintaining and sustaining a culture of inclusion, engagement, empowerment and authenticity where all people can reach their full potential. We recognize diverse and inclusive teams bring the best expertise to solve our clients' most pressing problems in an unbiased and objective way. We seek, retain and respect all people. We encourage each person to bring the full depth of who they are to work every day, everywhere, with everyone.

We are an equal opportunity employer.

Employment decisions are made without regard to race (as well as because of or on the basis of traits historically associated with race, including hair texture, hair type, and protective hairstyles such as braids, locks and twists), color, religion, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, physical or mental disability, pregnancy, childbirth, lactation and related medical conditions, genetic factors, military/veteran status or other characteristics protected by law.

Learn more about our commitment to Diversity, Equity, Inclusion and Accessibility.

Noblis Code of Ethics and Conduct

C. A Safe Workplace

Our most important goal is to protect the health and safety of our employees and to provide a safe, secure and healthy workplace for our employees.

We prohibit firearms, weapons and other items that may be used to inflict bodily harm or intimidate others in our facilities or those of our clients and business partners. We immediately communicate actual or potential Noblis-related safety, health or environmental concerns to respective managers, Human Resources or the Facility Security Officer (FSO). We report potential work-related injury and/or illness as soon as practicable to the Human Resources Benefits Department. For more information see the Corporate Security Policy.

If you are experiencing a real and immediate threat, call 911. If you are unsure, you can call Noblis Security anytime, day or night, at 703-610-2438.

D. Drugs and Alcohol

Noblis maintains a “drug-free” workplace. Being under the influence of illicit drugs or alcohol while working is prohibited. For more information see the Drug-Free Workplace Policy.

E. Environmental Protection

We strive to preserve and protect the environment, both in our workplace and in the community. This translates into complying with the requirements of all applicable environmental laws and regulations in our activities, and routinely reviewing operations so we continually improve our environmental performance. We strive to protect our environment. You are responsible for observing sensible environmental practices and taking reasonable steps to protect the environment in performing your work.

IV. Conducting Business with Integrity and Without Conflicts of Interest

Our clients value our objectivity. Every action we recommend, every acquisition in which we participate and every expense we incur is made solely because it is the right thing to do. To accomplish this, we conduct our business with integrity and strive to maintain a work environment free of conflicts of interest.

A. Conflicts of Interest

We must avoid conflicts of interest between our personal affairs and our obligations to Noblis and its clients. At times, you may find yourself in a situation where you, your spouse, children, parents, in-laws or someone else with whom you have a close personal relationship is a supplier, client, competitor or employee of Noblis, or has a financial interest in such an organization. In these cases, you must recuse yourself—even from business dealings where there’s just a perception of a conflict of interest—and notify the Compliance Office who will properly evaluate the situation.

For more information see the Gratuities and Personal Conflicts of Interest Policy.

B. Outside Employment Activities

We must avoid outside businesses and other activities that create or have the potential of creating a conflict of interest with our work at Noblis. All outside employment and activities must be approved in advance.

For more information see the Employment Policy and the Outside Employment Form.

C. Gifts, Gratuities and Other Business Courtesies

We win business and select business partners because of the merits of our people, products and services. To avoid even the perception of impropriety, we significantly restrict accepting or providing business courtesies from or to companies, agencies or persons with whom we conduct business. "Business courtesies" include gifts, loans, services, meals, entertainment, unusual hospitality or other items of value.

D. Anti-Kickback and Bribery Laws

In the United States, and in many other countries, it is illegal to provide, offer or accept a kickback or bribe in return for favorable treatment in connection with a government contract or business transaction. A kickback or bribe may take the form of any money, fee, commission, credit, gift, gratuity, item of value or compensation of any kind. Our policy on kickbacks and bribes is clear: they are illegal and are not allowed.

As a general rule, when in doubt, say no if a person, group or corporation offers you anything of monetary value, such as a rebate, present, gratuity or favor, that could influence a matter in which Noblis has an interest or could affect your actions or those of our company or clients. Even if you do not think it would influence your professional conduct, accepting gifts may reflect poorly on the integrity of your work and/or our mission and reputation to remain objective at all times.

For more information see the Gratuities and Personal Conflicts of Interest Policy.

E. Personal Conflict of Interest (PCI) in Government Acquisitions

We must comply, in all respects, with all federal requirements regarding procurement integrity and ethics. Employees participating in federal procurement activities must remain impartial and unbiased when advising our government clients. A PCI might exist if you or a close family member have a financial interest in an organization that Noblis is overseeing or evaluating for a public procurement. If you are involved with providing acquisition support to a Noblis government client, you must comply with all applicable laws, regulations and company and client procedures concerning conflicts of interest and financial disclosures. You must also disclose any financial conflicts of interest in accordance with our PCI policies and procedures. Please remember that even the appearance of a conflict of interest could seriously compromise Noblis' client relationships.

For more information see the Personal Conflicts of Interest and Support to Client Acquisitions Procedure.

F. Organizational Conflicts of Interest (OCI)

We are committed to maintaining the integrity of the federal procurement process by complying with all organizational conflicts of interest (OCI) rules. These rules may prohibit us from engaging in work where we have an unfair competitive advantage due to other work we perform for the government or where we are unable to give impartial advice to the government because of conflicting roles. We should all exercise common sense, good judgment and sound reasoning when making decisions about whether an actual, potential or perceived OCI exists. We should be particularly cautious when (i) writing requirements or statements of work for future procurements; (ii) performing work that provides access to non-public information that could provide Noblis a competitive advantage in a future procurement or (iii) evaluating Noblis' own products or services. OCIs are a complex subject. We take them seriously and proceed with caution if even the appearance of a conflict could exist.

For more information see the Pursuit of Client Work Policy and the OCI Procedure.

G. Hiring Former Federal Government Employees

Any discussions or contacts with current or former U.S. government employees (military or civilian) for the purpose of exploring potential employment opportunities are subject to federal conflict of interest laws and regulations. We may not engage in employment discussions with any current federal government employee who is involved in a matter affecting Noblis unless the federal employee has recused themselves or received a waiver. Similarly, once hired or retained, former government employees must strictly comply with any prohibitions stemming from their government employment that affect the work they perform for Noblis. If a current federal government employee initiates any employment discussions with you, please contact Human Resources and the Compliance Office for guidance.

For more information see the Employment of Federal Government Employees Procedure.

H. Political Contributions, Activities and Lobbying

We encourage voluntary involvement in the political process, but you must participate on your own time, at your own expense and using your own resources. You may not make political contributions or expenditures on Noblis' behalf or involve Noblis in political activities. In addition, you must refrain from implying Noblis sponsorship in any way—this includes using Noblis' name and/or your employee title. All correspondence with elected officials must indicate that you are expressing your own personal opinions. Additionally, you should avoid even the appearance of lobbying on behalf of Noblis.

For more information see the Direct Procurement Procedure.

I. Fair Competition

We value open and fair competition. We do not engage in activities that would unlawfully restrain trade or violate anti-trust laws such as price fixing or coordinating bids, boycotting customers or suppliers, entering into agreements that divide a market or teaming with companies in ways that create less competitive outcomes for customers.

For more information see the Antitrust Policy.

J. Responsible Science

Noblis employees must conduct research with the highest standards of ethics and integrity and report any actual or suspected misconduct, falsification, bias, fabrication, plagiarism or other practices that violate the standard codes of scholarly conduct and ethical behavior in professional scientific research.

V. Financial Integrity

A. Accurate Billing, Pricing, and Record Keeping

We understand the importance of responsible and accurate financial disclosures and record keeping. To assist in the production of full, fair, accurate, timely and understandable financial information and disclosures we commit to:

- Being clear and accurate in every aspect of our billing and pricing.
- Being cost-conscious when acquiring materials and services for the company.
- Accurately pricing products and services.
- Not splitting invoices to hide costs or avoid payment procedures.
- Preparing bills that are accurate and complete.

Noblis Code of Ethics and Conduct

- Including supporting documentation for every company payment that describes its purpose.
- Never making or approving a payment on the company's behalf with the intention, understanding or awareness that any part of the payment will be used for a purpose other than the one described by supporting documents.
- Taking responsibility for the complete accuracy of all cost charges and records. (Please note: falsifying records is a serious offense that can result in criminal and financial penalties for the company and the people involved).
- Never making statements, communications or representations to prospective clients that are not truthful and accurate in all respects.
- Never using company funds or assets for any unlawful or improper purpose, including personal use.

B. Time Reporting

Reporting labor hours and absences accurately and in a timely manner is our legal and ethical responsibility. Improper time charging may lead to disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment. You must know the charge code for the projects you support and must accurately and honestly report all hours worked after the work has been performed or at the end of the workday, whichever comes later.

For more information see the Time Reporting and Leave Procedure and the Time Reporting Policy.

C. Expense Reimbursement

Reporting We must record and submit business-related expenses in a timely and accurate manner. Employees who receive reimbursements for company-sponsored credit cards must promptly apply the funds to repay any outstanding debt—and may not use company-sponsored credit cards for personal expenses.

For more information see the Travel Handbook Procedure.

VI. Confidentiality and Communications with Third Parties

A. Noblis and Confidential Information

You may receive regular exposure to a wide range of information about Noblis, its business and its employees, including proprietary and confidential information. All employees must use reasonable care to protect proprietary and confidential information, including our strategies for the future, financial information, trade secrets, intellectual property and internal business practices from unauthorized use and disclosure. Whenever you receive an inquiry requiring you to disclose proprietary or confidential information about Noblis, refer to your manager, Mission Area or Shared Services VP/ Director or General Counsel. If you leave Noblis, you may not keep any Noblis proprietary or confidential information and you must continue to maintain the confidentiality of the information following your departure.

B. Third-Party and Confidential Information

In the regular course of doing business, we often receive proprietary and confidential information from third parties, such as teaming partners, subcontractors and suppliers. We are bound by the confidentiality provisions in our contracts with those third parties. Please understand those terms before you disclose third-party information. In addition, if you receive information from another company marked "company-confidential" or some other kind of similar, restrictive markings, you must comply with those markings. Revealing information provided in confidence and for a specific purpose jeopardizes our ability to work closely with other companies, and that jeopardizes our success. If you leave employment at Noblis, you may not keep any third-party confidential information and you must continue to maintain the confidentiality of such information. Similarly, you may not violate the intellectual property rights of third parties, including your former employer, and you must abide by all post-employment restrictions regarding the protection of third-party proprietary and confidential information.

C. Procurement and Protecting Sensitive Government Information

We must comply with all aspects of the Procurement Integrity Act which includes a prohibition against unlawfully obtaining and disclosing bid, proposal or source-selection information related to an ongoing federal procurement. Our clients often provide us with sensitive information. The rules and regulations that govern how we handle this information, its acquisition, use, storage, distribution and ultimate disposition—are strict. As a Noblis employee, you must know and follow government handling requirements. These requirements are described in more detail in the Corporate Security Policy and the Noblis Corporate Security Operations Plan Procedure. You should know that violations could lead to disciplinary action or even dismissal. So, handle with extreme care!

D. Inside Information

You may not use any Noblis or third party proprietary or confidential information gained through your employment with Noblis to further your private interests or for your personal gain or benefit or those of any other person or entity.

E. Licensed Material

Using, copying or disclosing software and other materials owned by third parties or licensed to the company is restricted. Unless it is specified in the license agreement, assume the licensed software cannot be copied and that its use is limited to corporate purposes.

F. Communications and Social Media

We must apply common sense and use social media responsibly and safely, in the best interests of Noblis as stated in the Noblis Social Media Policy. You are personally responsible for what you communicate in social media. Use good judgment about what you post and remember that anything you say on these platforms can impact the company's reputation. We encourage professionalism and honesty in social media and other communications. Never post or forward statements, audio, video, pictures or other materials that could be considered offensive, malicious, obscene, harassing or threatening to any readers or viewers.

We recognize the value that social media can bring to a business. Certain employees are authorized and encouraged to use social media as part of their job duties for Noblis' marketing, public relations, recruiting, corporate communications or other business purposes. No employee may open or create a social media account on behalf of or for the benefit of Noblis or use Noblis registered trademarks in connection with a social media account without prior authorization from the General Counsel.

G. When to Contact Noblis Marketing and Communications

The Noblis Marketing and Communications (MarCom) department manages all public news releases and social media for the company. Only designated Noblis spokespeople are authorized to release information to the public. Unless you have been designated as a spokesperson, you should not respond to inquiries from the press. You should forward all inquiries from the media to MarCom.

VII. Company Image and Assets

A. Company Image

Our reputation is among our most valuable assets. When representing Noblis, you must conduct yourself in a manner that reflects positively on the company's image and identity and never disparage or misrepresent the company's image or brand.

B. Company Assets

Our employees may not use corporate property, facilities, computers, trade secrets and other intellectual property, office supplies, equipment, products, confidential information, and funds for personal use in violation of our policies. You are responsible for using good judgment to ensure that corporate assets are used efficiently, responsibly and for their intended business purpose.

C. Company Intellectual Property

During your employment, you may create intellectual property for Noblis or its clients. All intellectual property you create during your employment or using Noblis assets or resources belongs solely to Noblis. Conversely, you may not bring any personal or pre-existing intellectual property in your possession to Noblis or use it in connection with our work. Our policy is to identify, maintain and protect intellectual property. Employees who create or develop intellectual property must notify Noblis pursuant to applicable policy.

D. Use of Information Systems

Information systems—the hardware, software and data that are stored, processed, transmitted, and reported—are critical to business success. You must use these systems responsibly, in accordance with all information system security policies, including the Rules of Behavior and Acceptable Use Standards for Noblis Information and Systems Resources Form. You must use Noblis information systems for legitimate business purposes only and may not use our information systems to:

- engage in communications that might be considered illegal, offensive, defamatory, harassing, obscene, vulgar or otherwise disruptive to normal business activity.
- disseminate information and data to unapproved systems.
- visit inappropriate Internet sites.
- improperly disseminate copyrighted or licensed materials or confidential and proprietary information of Noblis, our clients, or third parties.

You must also protect the security (i.e., confidentiality, integrity, availability) of our information systems and:

- information used to access company information systems, including user IDs, passwords, tokens and authenticators and building-access key cards.
- corporate data, and the data entrusted to us by our clients.
- information systems from physical and logical damage. You must never disable or bypass Corporate-provided security mechanisms.

Noblis Code of Ethics and Conduct

E. No Expectation of Privacy

Any communications you have at work or using Noblis resources (e-mail, voicemail, websites, etc.) are not private. Records of your communications may be made and used for a variety of reasons and may be monitored to verify that Company policies are being followed.

Please remember:

1. Noblis information systems are to be used for legitimate business purposes only.
2. You should have no expectation of privacy while using any Noblis information resource regardless of time or location of use.
3. Your use of any Noblis information resource is monitored.

Remember that Noblis has rights of access to all company property, including computers, and all communications, e-mail and voicemail messages, records and information created in the business setting, regardless of whether you consider the information or communication to be private.

VIII. Compliance with Other Laws and Regulations

A. Comply with Laws and Regulations

It is important that you comply with all laws, regulations and required standards that apply to your and the company's activities. This Code highlights several of the areas of law that you must understand. But it is by no means exhaustive. That's why it is important that you read, understand and comply with all our policies and procedures.

Please contact the Office of the General Counsel at legal.office@noblis.org or the Compliance Office at ComplianceOffice@noblis.org if you have any questions regarding the application or interpretation of any law, regulation or this Code.

B. Cooperation in Investigations

You are required to fully cooperate with all internal investigations including contractual reviews, audits and requests for financial data or other information. You may never lie or mislead an investigator or destroy or alter any documents or electronic records. The company will comply, to the greatest extent possible, with all government investigations. And, if requested, you are also required to fully cooperate with government investigations. If you are contacted directly by the government regarding an investigation, you must immediately notify the Office of the General Counsel at Legal.Office@noblis.org.

For more information see the Investigations Procedure.

C. Mandatory Disclosure

You are responsible for immediately reporting to your manager, Mission Area or Shared Service VP or Director, General Counsel or Compliance Officer any information regarding a potential violation of any law or any other government contracting regulations involving fraud, conflicts of interest, bribery or gratuities, false claims or overpayments on a government contract.

For more information see the Mandatory Disclosure Policy.

Noblis Code of Ethics and Conduct

D. Export Control Compliance

We comply with all laws and regulations that prohibit trade with certain countries, organizations and individuals or require government authorization for exporting, re-exporting or transferring sensitive hardware, technology or other information.

For more information see the US Foreign Trade Control Compliance Policy.

E. Human Trafficking

We condemn all human rights abuses including human trafficking, slavery and forced labor. We seek to provide working conditions for all employees that are safe and healthy and free of harassment and discrimination. All employees may terminate their employment voluntarily. We expect our supply chain to uphold similar standards regarding human rights and we have zero tolerance for corruption.

For more information see the Combatting Trafficking in Persons Policy.

IX. Policies and Procedures

Policies and procedures related to the various sections in the Code are located on the Noblis employee intranet site, the KNOW.

Trainings related to various aspects of the business are located in the Noblis Learning and Development Center (LDC) on the KNOW. You must complete training related to your job as required, and review training materials periodically to keep requirements fresh in your mind.

X. Conclusion

A. Acknowledgement and Statement of Compliance

On an annual basis, you must acknowledge that you have read and will comply with the Code and the policies and procedures it represents. Each year, we provide an acknowledgement statement to all current employees for the required Annual Statement of Compliance—and all new employees are required to sign a similar acknowledgement upon hire.

B. Participation in Training

Noblis has designed a training program to help employees understand our Code, the legal and regulatory requirements regarding the conduct of our business and to learn how to recognize and react to situations requiring ethical decision making. You will be required to take annual Code training and may be required to take other mandatory trainings by specific due dates as applicable. Refer to the Training and Professional Development Procedure.

C. Changes to the Code

This Code is not a contract. We may update, modify and interpret the Code and our policies at our sole discretion.

XI. Who to Contact

Message From the Chief Ethics and Compliance Officer

Lauren McGinley

This Code is all about doing what's right. Business ethics are critical for our success and for building trust and transparency among our employees, our partners and our clients.

Our work with government clients has a significant and meaningful impact on our society. Because we work in a highly regulated industry, it can be difficult to always instinctively know the best way to handle a particular situation.

This Code is designed to help each of us navigate through this complex environment and aim higher than following normal business practices or merely complying with the law. Our Code is designed to help us conduct our business in a manner that we can all be proud of and that reflects our high ethical standards.

No business ethics policy can cover every circumstance that might arise in a diverse and complex business such as ours. Because of this, we must rely on you to observe the spirit of our Code and to uphold the highest standards of conduct in all our business dealings and with each other.

This Code provides several reporting methods, including the anonymous Noblis Compliance Helpline Reporting System, which is available to you 24 hours a day, at 1-888-297-4192 or the Compliance Helpline Website through ethicspoint.com.

Any employee, who, in good faith, seeks advice, raises a concern, or reports misconduct is following this Code and is Doing What's Right.

We do not permit any form of retaliation against good faith reports or allegations of violations of this Code or other illegal or unethical conduct. Please reach out if you have any questions. We're here to guide you along the way.

Noblis has been named on Ethisphere's annual "World's Most Ethical Companies" list 12 times in the past 14 years.
